

Which Class Should I Choose?

A Guide to the 2027 WGASC Classes

Color Guard

Classification

Group in this class are usually:

Jr. High AAA	Beginning junior/middle school performers doing single efforts with staff newer to teaching.
Jr. High AA	Junior/middle school performers with some experience doing single efforts with staff newer to teaching
Jr. High A	Experienced 7th-8th grade middle/junior high performers exploring multiple skills
Independent Regional A	Beginning performers not affiliated with a single school doing single efforts with staff newer to teaching.
High School AA	Beginning high school performers doing single efforts with staff newer to teaching.
High School A	High school performers with some experience doing single efforts with staff newer to teaching
Scholastic AAA	High school performers beginning to explore A Class skills and design within shows that meet the WGI A standard for timing requirements.
Scholastic AA	High school performers continuing to explore A Class skills and design within shows that meet the WGI A standard for timing requirements.
Scholastic A	Working to achieve WGI A Class Standard skills and design
Independent A	Working to achieve WGI Independent A Class Standard skills and design
Scholastic Open	Working to achieve WGI Scholastic Open Standard skills and design
Independent Open	Working to achieve WGI Independent Open Standard skills and design
Scholastic World	Working to achieve WGI Scholastic World Class Standard skills and design
Independent World	Working to achieve WGI Independent World Class Standard skills and design